Board split on action for CABL lots

The Antioch Village Board voted against sending a proposal to amend the subdivision code to the planning commission.

The motion was made because a representative for the developer of the CABL properties on the northwest side of the village asked last week that the minimum width of subdivision lots be changed from 70 to 65 feet.

THE 65 FOOT LOT width follows the village zoning ordinance, but is not in compliance with the subdivision code.

Mayor Michael J. Haley broke the tie vote. Also voting against the measure were Trustees Edgar Simonsen, Ronald J. Cunningham and Vern 'Barney' Barnstable.

"The motion undermines confidence in the ordinances and subdivision zoning," said Trustee Donald H. Amundsen.

"I'm very disgusted and very disappointed," said Trustee William H. Seemann of the board's decision not to have the planning commission examine the proposal.

"I think it's the most outrageous thing I've heard on my eight years on the board," he added.

"WE NATURALLY BUCKLE under and comply with their (developers) wishes. It makes a mockery of the time and effort that goes into these ordinances," Amundsen said.

He added that the planning commission puts in hundreds of hours and then changes ordinances "to accommodate a specific developer."

"Other things have to be taken into consideration... (the developer) followed the zoning code which is in conflict with our subdivision codes," Haley said.

"I do not believe we're buckling under to any developer. I believe the amendments... honestly reflect the attitudes of this board and the community," he said.

Tony Starcevic, a member of the planning commission, said, "I am also somewhat disappointed that the motion went through."

STARCEVIC SAID HE saw a trend developing in the way the village was handling developers' requests.

"It took a long time to get the ordinance through the board and with a swift scratch of the pen" it is changed, he said.

"We're chasing the subdivision developers a little bit heavy," Starcevic added. "I hope the board will reconsider (the action) at some future date."

WHEN A DEVELOPER plans a subdivision, he goes to the subdivision ordinance, Amundsen said. "It was specifically set up for the new subdivision areas being developed in the village," he said.

"We've got a procedure spelled out in the comprehensive plan to refer it to the planning commission," Amundsen added.

"I think this is one of the toughest votes they've had in a long time," Seemann said of the board's decision.

The subdivision ordinance took more than a year to be accepted by the board, he added.

In other action the board authorized the attorney to draw up an ordinance to put the subdivision code in compliance with the zoning ordinance.

THE BOARD VOTED 4-2, with Amundsen and Seemann opposing.

This will change the CABL subdivision lot width to comply with the same lot width specified in the zoning ordinance for property with the same R-2 zoning.

For R-2 property, a 65 foot minimum lot width is required according to the zoning ordinance.

Energy forms ready to read

Project conserve computer printouts for the first 300 forms turned in are back from the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources.

The completed computer analysis forms can be picked up at the Village Hall during regular business hours. You may also wait and pick them up at one of the three workshops that will be held during July.

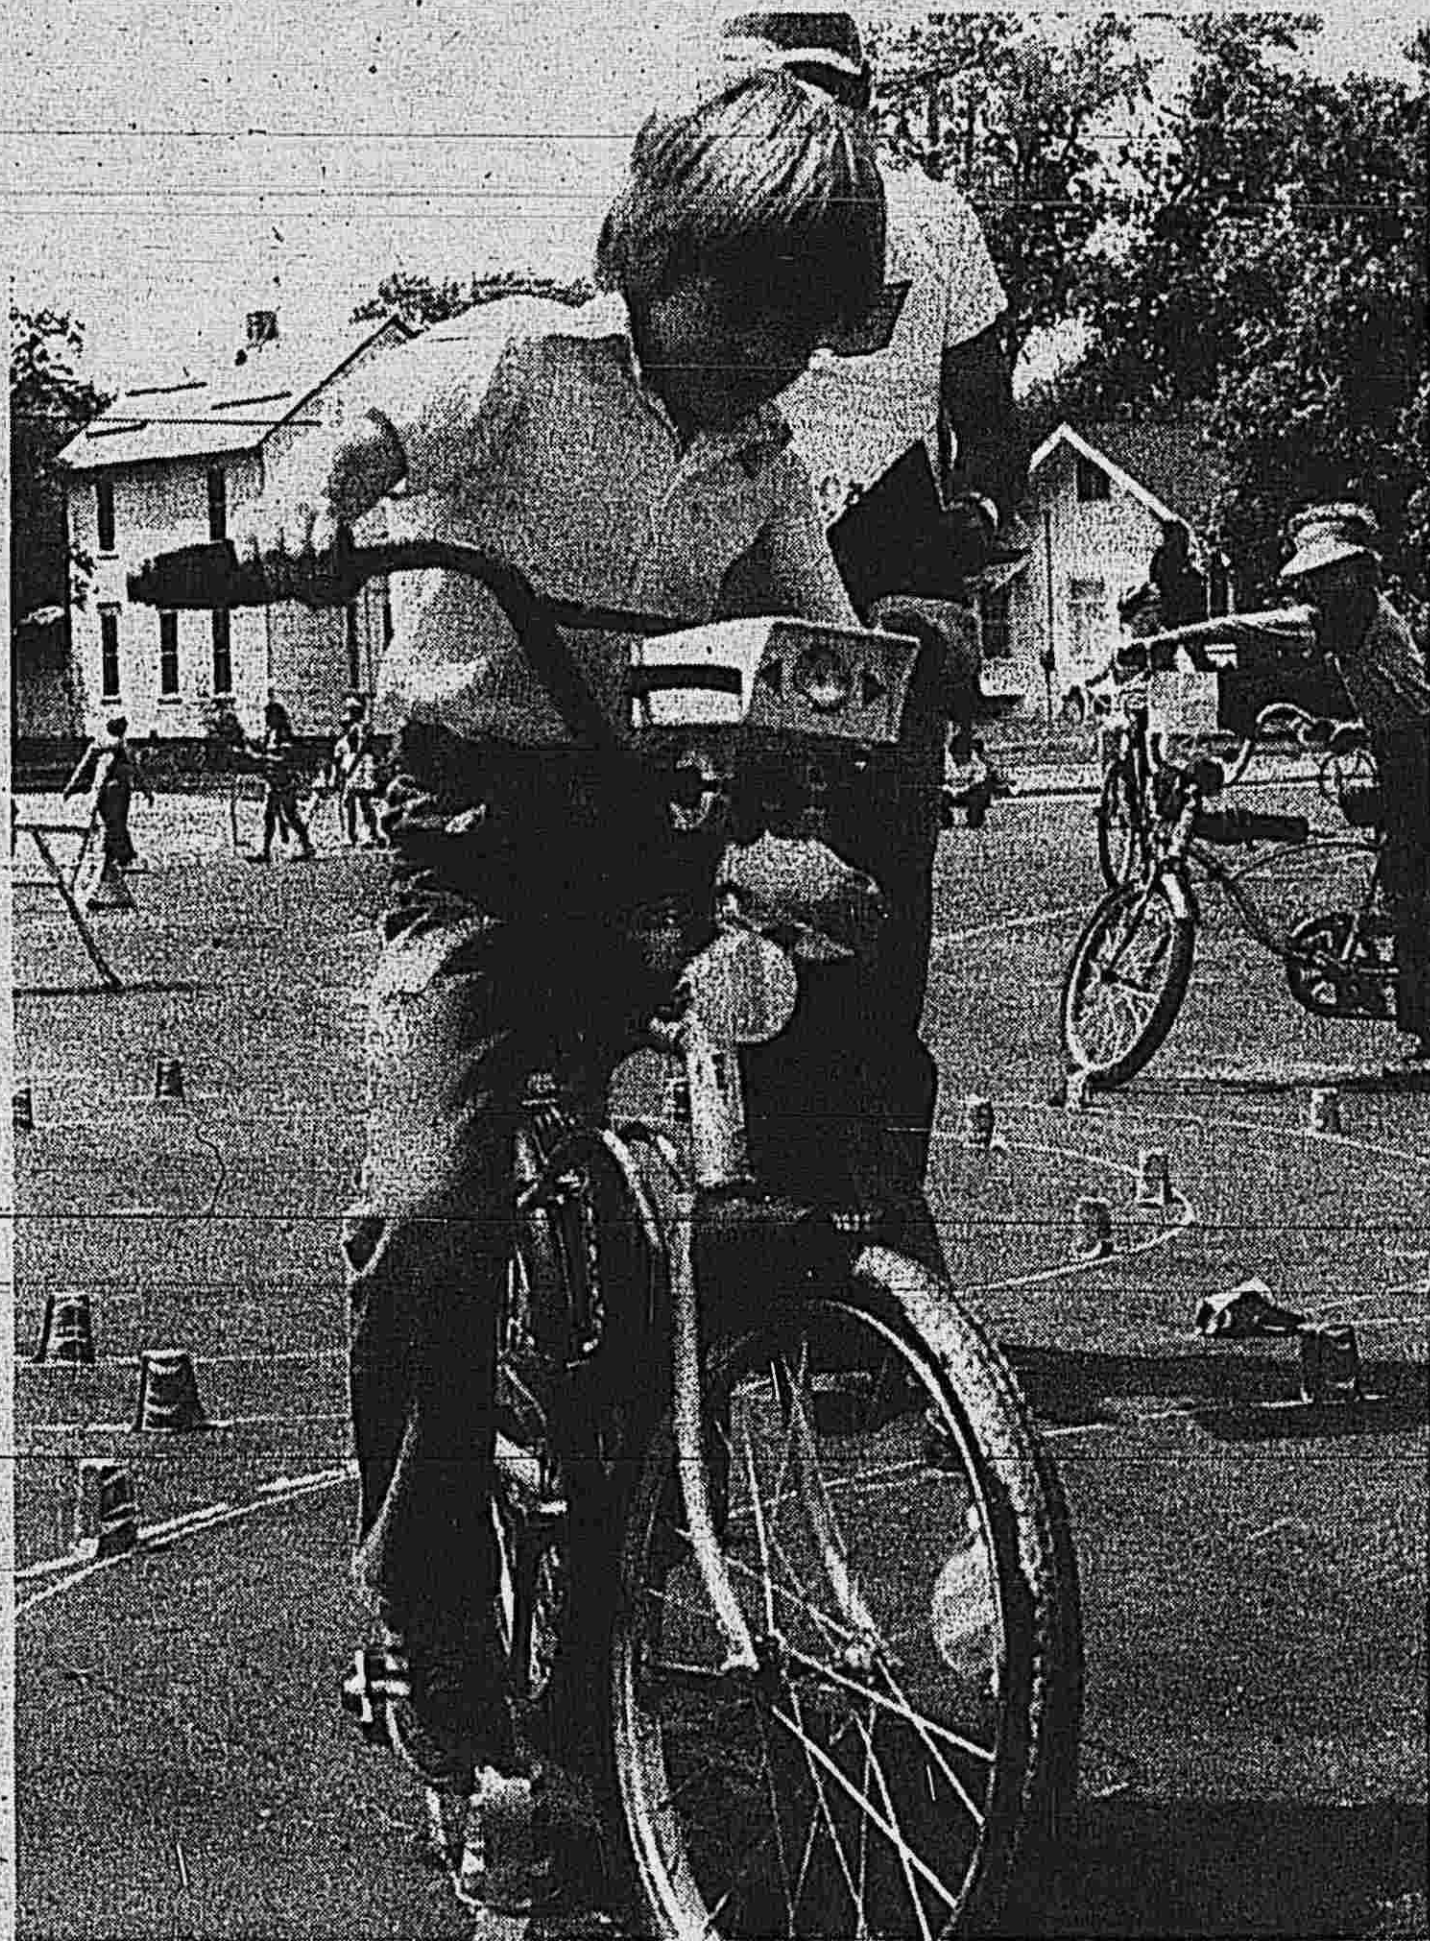

The places for the workshops have not been set but the dates will be on the last three Wednesdays JULY 11, 18 and 25.

At the workshops additional information will be given out to help people decide what energy-saving improvements will be best for them. Explanations of the results will be given for those people who find the computer form difficult to read.

The people at The Illinois Institute of Natural Resources have indicated that Antioch has done very well as a community in terms of the number of forms sent in. However, there is still time to get your form in as the last batch of forms will be sent at the end of the month.

If you want to turn in a form you can get one by calling the environmental education office at the district 34 administrative offices, either 395-5333 or 395-0712. They will send you a form to complete and the institute will process all of the remaining forms from Antioch in a single batch.

"Don't wait. Prices for energy promise to be even worse this winter and if we get another bad one we will all be sorry we didn't act now when we had the time," Project Director Michael Teeley warned.

Indus Gagnon top biker for annual bike rodeo

Well over 100 area children ages 6 through 14 participated in the Third Annual Bicycle Safety Rodeo held June 13th and sponsored by the State Bank of Antioch in conjunction with the bicycle safety program of the office of Alan J. Dixon, Secretary of State.

State Bank officers and staff as well as members of Antioch's Department of Parks and Recreation all served as timekeepers, scorers, registrars, and judges for the event.

Members of the Antioch Police Department were on hand to safety check and register bikes.

The contest consisted of seven skill tests which were designed to provide youngsters with an opportunity to demonstrate their ability to ride safely and gain confidence at the handlebars. Each test awarded a high score of 10 points with points deducted for faulty maneuvers.

Eighteen trophies were awarded to boy and girl winners in three age groups, with a Grand Prize, 10-speed bicycle, going to the one with the highest over-all score.

This year's Grand Prize went to Indus Gagnon, age 11. She had a total score of 67, with 43.2 seconds on the slow speed test.

Other first, second, and third place winners were: In the Girls Junior Division — Kim Kennedy, Anne Wegl, and Kelly Doyle. In the Boys Junior Division — Craig Rench, Brian J. Hahn, and Joey Schaeffer. Girls Intermediate Division — Indus Gagnon, Noelle Lochen, and Lana Keroson. Boys Intermediate Division — Ricky Ruck, Michael DiSalvatore, and Tim Gagnon. Girls Senior Division — Angie Poulos, Michele Werner, and Roxan West. Boys Senior Division — Ted DeRousee, John Klazak, and Ed Poulos.

They're biting

A rising barometer last week brought fish from the 8 to 10 foot level up to the surface for good fishing this week.

According to Ed Sorenson, Sorenson's Bait Shop, Antioch, northern pikes are biting on all lakes, especially Cross Lake, Lake Catherine and Channel Lake.

Blue Gills will bite pretty frequently in East Loon Lake and other lakes as well. Sorenson also said that Bass are biting on all lakes and fishermen are reminded that Bass like about three feet of water and a sandy or rocky area.

Chamber promotes industry

Initial response was favorable to establishing a permanent industrial service committee for the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

Representatives of local industry and other Chamber members met at the Antioch Library to discuss ways industry members can work together and the Chamber can better serve members in the manufacturing field.

Dan Dugenske, a board member and chairman of the Chamber's industrial recognition committee, reported that the aim is to develop a "broad based" program of service and awareness. Working with Dugenske, a co-chairman is Bob Taubitz, plant manager of Regal China.

Chamber President William Bishoff stressed that the Chamber's desire is to work with local industry in anyway possible. He said the Chamber is especially concerned about having the public be aware and appreciate what local industry does in the way of providing employing citizens and paying taxes.

Persons attending the meeting agreed with Dugenske that a follow-up meeting should be held in a month. Next meeting tentatively is set for July 10.

The lid is on and the jig is up for gangsters and the Chicago hoodlums who have looked with longing eyes upon Lake County as a potential field for racketeering. Chased out of Cook County by State's Attorney Swanson's war on beer, booze and slot machines, George "Bugs" Moran, "Scar Face" Al Capone's mob and the Druggan-Lake outfit sought to gain a foothold in Lake County with their rackets, using strong-arm methods and gangster tactics in an effort to terrorize Lake County "syndicate" men and proprietors of resorts.

The two have been on their tour for nine months and have covered 16 states in traveling 6,000 miles. They started out walking, but found that mode of travel too slow so they purchased lightweight three-speed bicycles. They make about 130 miles a day, but do not hesitate to stop to see unusual sights.

ACHS valedictorian

Houghton aims at 2 degrees

"School was always easy for me," Antioch Community High School Valedictorian Darren Houghton revealed as he talked of past school experiences.

With a grade point average of straight A's, Houghton plans to continue his education at Washington Univ. in St. Louis where he will be studying on an Air Force R.O.T.C. scholarship towards a masters degree in architecture and a bachelor's degree in engineering.

Houghton was also the recipient of a scholarship from ACHS and was chosen Outstanding Senior Boy.

Active in sports, he earned four letters in both football and wrestling as well as serving as treasurer and secretary of the A Club.

Hunting and fishing are his favorite sports out of school and he has been going on trips to Canada for muskies and deer since he was eight years old.

This summer he will be "trying to make some money," he said, by working as a janitor in the Round Lake Schools.

Houghton was born in Antioch and attended Antioch Grade School and Upper Grade School.

In scouting, he rose to the rank of Star Scout and served as Senior Patrol leader.

As he commences his new life in college, Houghton admits to a bit of apprehension as to what the experiences will bring. He expects he will be studying a lot harder, but that is a challenge, he said.

Darren is the son of Clifton Houghton of Antioch and Bethsebe Houghton also of Antioch.

HIGHLIGHTS

The Cubs pounded out a league season high of 17 hits in defeating the Astros 18-8. John Kreplin, Scott Ranney, each had 3 hits while Tony Besson, Jeff Peterson, Rob Christian and Tim Prinsing collected 2 each.

Only one team escaped the week without getting beat. It was the Tigers. Vic Calonder and Mike Jones each pitched 4 hit, 1 run games. Calonder lead off both games with a triple and then scored to give the Tigers the lead for good.

In the minors the Brewers pulled off a triple play. With runners on 1st and 2nd, and nobody out, a Yankee batter hit a liner up the middle. Lisa Riettschel caught the ball, stepped on second and threw to Doug Burke at first to retire the side. The Brewers won the game 15-7.

Sandy Domke takes lots of kidding

by NANCY POULER

Although she gets kidded about being in police work, Antioch Dispatcher Sandra Domke wouldn't change her interesting job for a more traditional one.

"I always thought police work would be exciting and interesting," the very feminine, attractive young woman said.

"I just couldn't see myself in a nine to five job at a typewriter all the time."

She admitted that as a single girl, "some" prospective suitors are "turned off" when they learn she is in the police department.

"It doesn't happen too often — but, those kind you don't need," she laughed.

She really isn't a "policeman". Instead, she is a civilian employee of the Antioch Police Dept.

Five years ago, after completing courses in law enforcement at CLC, Sandy started her position as dispatcher.

Except for her boss, Garnet Cook, she has been dispatcher longer than any of the others and has had the advantage of learning to use all the complicated equipment as it was obtained, she said.

With the multitude of intricate communication machines and radios surrounding her, Sandy observed, "I was lucky enough to learn it as it came in."

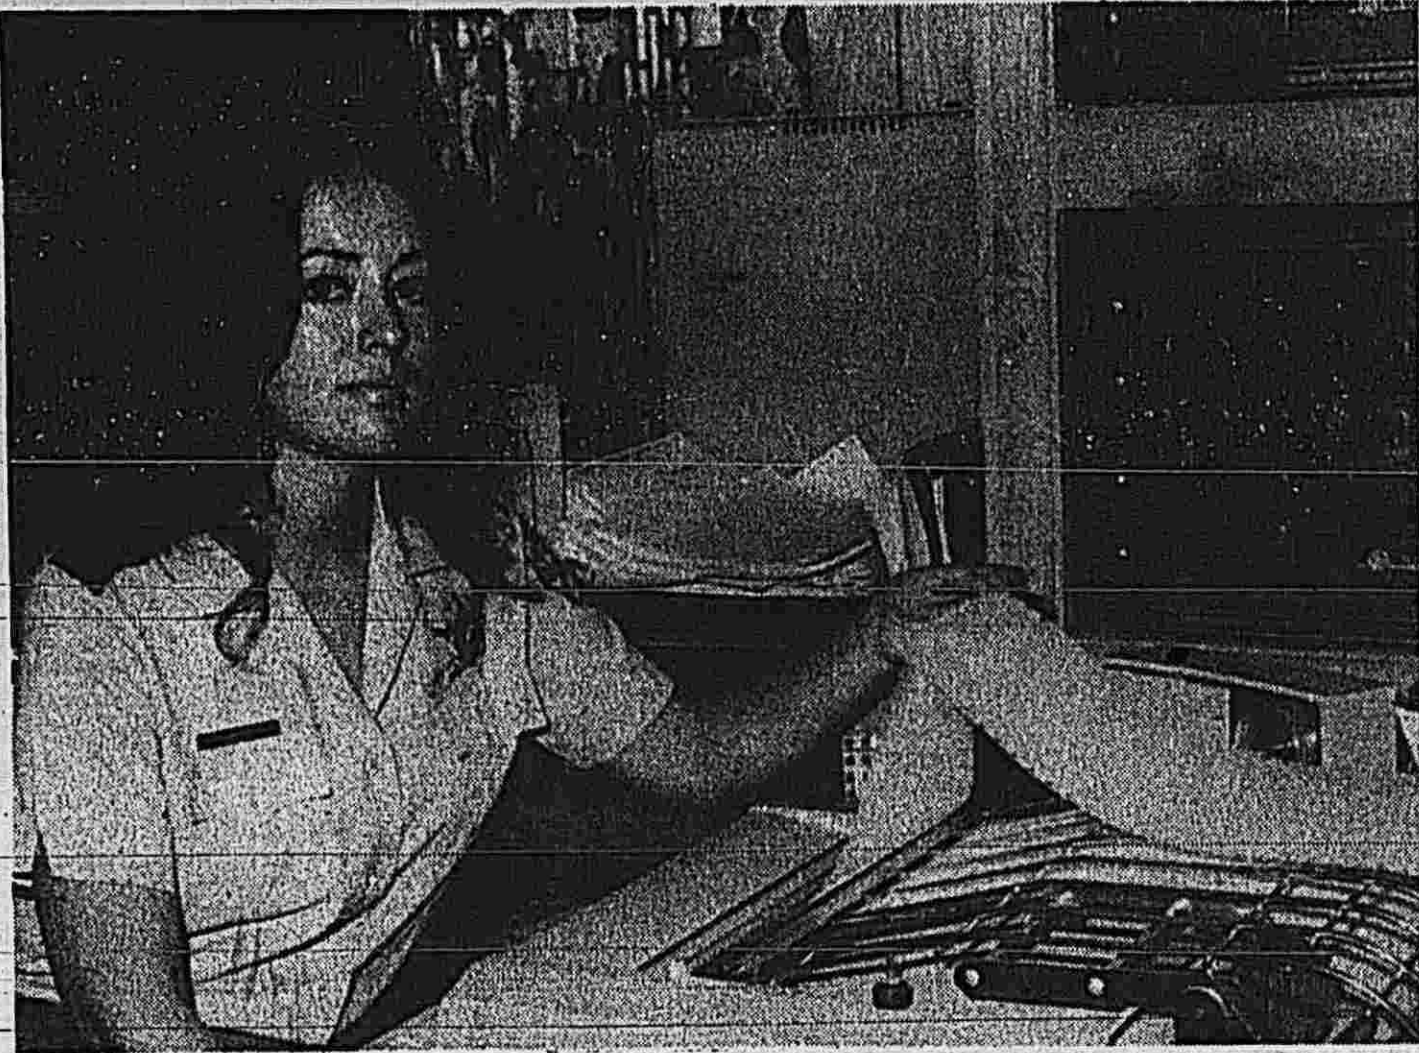

There is no desire on her part, she said, to become a police officer.

"I wouldn't want the hassel of being a regular policeman. I'm very happy where I am."

She looks forward to summertime when she swims, water skis and goes boating; things she cannot do in the winter when, she says, "I hate the cold — I hibernate all winter."

While she is snug inside she keeps busy sewing, sketching and reading, "anything but history".

Sandy grew up in Antioch on Channel Lake, where her parents, Clarence and Emma still live.

PM&L's 'Picnic' ready to close

The picnic is almost over at the PM&L Theater, 877 Main Street.

The last two performances of William Inge's Pulitzer Prizewinning play, "Picnic," will be given there Friday and Saturday nights, June 22 and 23. Directed by Tom Hausman, the production is a faithful presentation of small town living and loving in the America of the 1950s.

During the performances of the last two weekends, audiences and critics alike have enjoyed this straightforward reproduction of a society in which neighbors scrutinized carefully and criticized mercilessly, the uncertain manners and morals of a generation moving into adulthood.

If you have not yet seen the PM&L production of this moving play, you should act fast to make your reservations for either of the last two performances. The telephone number to call for reservations is 395-3055 and you should plan on being at the PM&L Theater no later than 8:15 of the night you plan to see the show.

Fengers wed for 50 years

George and Mary Fenger observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary May 25, but, celebrated the occasion in March with a trip to Las Vegas made possible by a gift from their children.

The Fengers were married in St. Edwards Church in Chicago and moved to Antioch in 1954 and then to Salem, where they now reside, three years ago.

Although Mrs. Fenger was told by her doctor when she got married she could have no children, she and her husband raised six healthy, happy offspring who gathered at daughter Marie Richter's home for an anniversary party.

Mr. Richter was a machinist at the Chicago Tribune until he retired in 1971. Since then, he has been able to spend all his time on his favorite past-time, remodeling their home.

"He knocks out walls and closes up walls and make whole bathrooms out of showers," daughter Marie told.

The Fengers have 17 grandchildren, and five great grandchildren all of whom were on hand to help celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I have an important comment on an ignorant statement made by Gail Heath, President of Antioch School Board, when she addressed the audience at the Antioch Upper Grade Graduation exercise held at Antioch High School, Thursday evening, June 7.

She introduced some "very special children" related to members of the school board and superintendent. I am appalled and very upset at the fact that this ignorant statement was made. All those young people that graduated were special to all their respective parents, guardian and relatives.

Perhaps this is an example that demonstrates that the President of District 34 could use a little more education herself.

With an attitude such as Mrs. Heath has, no wonder our educational system is in jeopardy. Do school board members only concern themselves with the education of their own children — or their relatives children?

I didn't think anyone would be this small but evidently I'm wrong.

The single most important paragraph in a disability income insurance policy is the definition of disability. What you and I call disability and what the company calls disability may not be at all the same. The definition also varies widely between companies. First of all, policies are typically written to cover only "total disability". You have to be totally unable to work, not just slowed down. A few companies will let you add coverage for partial disability at an extra premium. This will give you part of the monthly benefit if you are partially disabled. For example, if you had a heart attack and your doctor told you to only work three days a week from now on, the company would pay you part of your benefit. If they would pay you $200 a week for a total disability, they would give you say, $100 for this partial disability. The exact amounts vary between policies. This can be a nice option. I didn't take it. Whether you want it is up to you.

A major distinction between policies is whether they have an "own occupation" or an "any occupation" definition of disability. Some policies consider you disabled only if you are unable to perform any work for compensation. If you had a highly skilled job but now can only keep a low paying one, they still don't consider you disabled. The better policies will consider you disabled if you are unable to perform your own, accustomed occupation.

A policy with an own occupation definition of disability is definitely preferable to one with an any occupation definition. Most policies that do offer the own occupation definition, do so only for the first years of the disability. They will consider you disabled because you are unable to do what you're accustomed to doing. But that won't last forever. The policy will say down in the fine print how long it does last. The typical time is two years. The longest I've seen is ten years. Then the policy reverts to an any occupation definition of disability. Then you have to be medically unable to hold any job to be considered disabled.

At the time of disability, how does the company determine if you fit the definition they had in the policy? Basically, most companies rely on your doctor. This is especially true of the companies that use the more liberal own occupation definition of disability. If your doctor fills out an insurance form and says that you can't work, many companies will take his word for it. All companies have some of their claimants examined by the company's own doctor. Some companies have all their claimants examined by the company's own doctor. Find out which way the company you're looking at does it.

Richmond Pioneer Club enjoys all-day bus trip

Richmond Pioneer Senior Citizens Club enjoyed an all day pleasure trip on May 15.

Starting from Richmond parking lot at 9:30 a.m. by bus, the group arrived in Wilmette at the Bahai House of Worship.

After a very informative slide picture presentation and narration of the Bahai Temples locations, construction, as well as the worship, a question and answer period clarified many questions regarding these buildings and worship.

A competent guide who answered these questions then escorted the group through the temple explaining the architecture, the Bahai's interesting history and religion.

BEFORE BOARDING the bus, some took a walking tour of the grounds enjoying the colorful flowering shrubbery, trees, bushes, and garden plots. There also were nine circular pools on the grounds but at this time were not filled with water.

The bus then proceeded to the Dragon Inn North Restaurant in Glenview to enjoy the delicious food and service of Mandarin in their atmosphere. Some of the interior materials of the restaurant had been imported from their homeland which made the restaurant attractive.

The bus arrived in Richmond late in the afternoon with everyone departing feeling the day well spent in fun and education.

On May 17 some of the Richmond Pioneers Senior Citizens joined the Genoa City Senior Citizen's Group to travel by bus to Fort Atkinson, Wis.

Leaving the Genoa City parking lot at 10 a.m., the rider's sang and enjoyed the countryside view while enroute to the Fireside Restaurant.

A delicious luncheon was served in the beautiful rustic setting. After the luncheon and visit to gift shop everyone went to the theater room to see the play "Oklahoma."

ABOUT 1,750 persons had the pleasure to see the well-done play performed. The bus trip back to Genoa City was delightful with another songfest, visiting and munching on the delicious cookies furnished by the Fireside Restaurant. It was another day of gratification.

Antioch pageant plans

The Lake Region Homemakers held their June meeting at the Wunderbar Restaurant June 13 and Miss Antioch, Lillian Foreman, made an appearance.

Lillian spoke to the Club about the Miss Antioch scholarships. As Miss Antioch, Lillian received a $1,500 scholarship. Scholarships in the total amount of $2,500 were awarded at the Miss Antioch Pageant.

In July when Lillian competes in the Miss Illinois Pageant she will be vying for a $3,000 scholarship which is awarded as top prize for Miss Illinois.

A total of $8,000 in scholarships will be awarded at that pageant. The winner of the Miss Illinois Pageant will go on to Atlantic City for the Miss America Pageant and $20,000 in scholarship money, all of which makes these pageants very important to their entrants.

Lillian hopes to complete school in the medical field which creates a great need for the scholarships.

"This being the first year for the Miss Antioch Pageant, our town is to be commended for their generosity in contributing to the scholarship fund. Some pageants in the Miss America preliminaries that have been in existence for several years have seen no more in scholarship money than we had this, our first year," said Marlo Good, chairman of the Miss Antioch Pageant. "We hope not only meet this year's amount, but surpass it for next year's pageant," she said.

In preparation for Miss Illinois Pageant, Lillian made an appearance at the Miss Barrington Pageant and performed her talent.

The audience received her very well and were greatly impressed with her ability. On Friday, June 15 Lillian attended the last preliminary pageant held in Carpentersville, Illinois and was introduced to the audience. "I've been very busy so far this summer," said Lillian, "but I enjoy all the activities and I'm looking forward to July and the state pageant."

The state competition will be held July 17 through 21. Arrangements are being made to have the Miss Illinois Pageant finals televised July 21.
